MUSICAL STOCK AT BUNGALOW THEATRE

Present Stock Company There Will Close In a Short Time.

Plans were made last night by the Bungalow company, which controls the Bungalow theatre, to close the present stock company there on April 30.

The members of the company were given notice that their contracts would expire at that time. It is probable that the week of May 1 will be devoted to fight pictures, and after that a musical stock company will be placed in the theatre. It looks probable that Allen Curtis of Denver will bring a company from that place which he already has under contract.

Max Florence, the moving picture magnate of the west, has been negotiating with the Bungalow company to take over the theatre, it being his intention to place Willard Mack and Maude Leone there at the head of a strong stock company. It is understood that the deal was not closed because of the fact that Mr. Florence declined to purchase the lease, offering to take the theatre and guarantee the stockholders some dividends. Mr. Florence's offer was under consideration for several days, but it was definitely rejected by the directors of the Bungalow company at a meeting last night.

It is expected that the Shubert theatre will open in a short time with a stock company, in which Mr. and Mrs. Mack will be the co-stars. Mr. Florence having secured that theatre for a long lease and having already made plans to remodel it and fit it for a stock house.

Max Daniels, president of the Bungalow company, said after the meeting last night that the change was not made because of any lack of patronage of the present dramatic stock company, which is led by Miss Blanche Douglas and Noel Travers, but the advanced season demands a change at this time.

POLICEMAN CHASES MAN NEARLY THREE BLOCKS

After a chase of nearly three blocks, Joe Bennett, aged 35 years, was arrested on suspicion at First South and State streets last night by Patrolman J. A. Egbert. The policeman was attracted by a large package carried by Bennett and demanded that he show its contents. Bennett started to run, and dashing down Second South street, cut into Commercial street and dodged to Plum alley, finally coming out in State street and heading straight for the police station, but was overtaken at the Y. M. C. A.

At police headquarters it was found that the package contained twenty dozen pairs of calfskin gloves. Bennett says he won them in a lottery several days ago.

INVESTIGATE WOMAN'S CLAIM.

Judge John Stansbury, United States attorney in Indian war claims, left last night for Grand and San Juan counties. Among the cases that will come under his investigation is that of Mrs. H. Dalley of Salt Lake, who has a claim against the United States to the amount of $17,500, for loss of horses, cattle and buildings sustained by S. Barton, Mrs. Dalley's former husband, whose ranch near Bluff was attacked and destroyed by Indians in 1887.
